AND ST. JOSEPH—HEARINGS IN THE COURTS
YESTERDAY.

The Hannibal and St. Joseph "corner" has been left apparently to the decision of the courts. No attempt at private settlement was made yesterday, and no sale of the stock was made at the Stock Exchange. In consequence of the legal restraint imposed upon them by the injunctions granted to Amos L. Hopkins and Everett L. Weston, Kennedy. Hutchinson & Co. yesterday sent to the Stock Exchange a letter in which they informed the Board of the injunctions and of the particulars of the transaction between them and W. E. Conner & Co. A meeting of the Governing Committee was called but after some discussion the meeting was adjourned without taking decisive action. Since the culmination of the "corner" frequent reports affecting the position of the Bank of North America have been circulated in Wall-st. William Dowd, president both of the bank and the railroad company, referred to these reports yesterday.

"The bank," he said, "has not neld for several weeks any common stock as collateral security for loans, and now has only 400 shares of preferred stock as part security of a loan of $100,000, of which the remainder of the security consists of other stocks."

Mr. Dowd reiterated that he personally had not the smallest interest in the common stock or in the

which the remainder of the security consists of other stocks."

Mr. Dowd reiterated that he personally had not the smallest interest in the common stock or in the operations of the pool.

Justice Noah Davis sat yesterday in the Supreme Court Chambers to hear the argument on the motion which had been made on behalf of Leon Goldman for a peremptory mandamus to compel the Hannibal and St. Joseph Company to issue its common stock in exchange for certain of its bonds held by H. R. Wilson. The answer to the complaint was read and contained in substance a denial of its allegations. The charges of conspiracy on the part of the directors of the company contained in the complaint were then stricken out on motion of the counsel for Mr. Goldman Mr. Goldman asks for the mandamus on the ground that he is an owner of preferred stock, and that for some time he has not received any dividends cu his stock, and that he is interested in having the bonds of the company exchanged for common stock, because the money which had hitherto been necessary to pay interest on the bonds might then be used to pay the dividends which he desired to receive. The bonds in question bear date March 1, 1870, and contain a clause authorizing their exchange for common stock on any first day of March or September prior to 1884.

Wager Swayne as counsel for Mr. Goldman.

Wager Swayne as counsel for Mr. Goldman, argued that time was not of the essence of the contract, and that the bondholders were entitled to receive common stock in exchange for their bonds at any time. Eliha Root appeared for the company and insisted that the time mentioned in the bonds for their conversion into stock was very material, otherwise no one in buying stock could possibly know how many shares there might be for might come to be in existence. He also called the attention of the court to the circumstance that the bonds had been issued under a statute of the State or Missouri which expressly declared that the bonds of the company could not be converted into stock within ten years after the time of their date and that these bonds were issued in 1870. Mr. Swayne thought that this statute could not possibly create any impeachment to the company in doing what it had expressly contracted to do.

Justice Davis suggested to Mr. Root that there any impeacement to the company in doing what it had expressly contracted to do.

Justice Davis suggested to Mr. Root that there was probably a later statute than the one referred to by him, as otherwise it was hardly credible that the company would have issued the bonds in their present form. Mr. Root replied that after the most careful search no other statute had been found, Justice Davis reserved his decision.

The, mandamus suit brought by Henry R, Wilson before the United States Circuit Court on an order issued by Judge Blatchford to compel the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railway Company to convert bonds of the company into unpreferred capital stock at par did not come up for trial yesterday in the United States Circuit Court, as Judge Blatchford was absent from the city. was absent from the city.

ARREST OF AN INDUSTRIOUS FORGER.

ARREST OF AN INDUSTRIOUS FORGER.

J. H. Warren, an ex-convict, who in the past three months has committed various small forgeries under assumed names, was locked up at Police Headquarters last evening. The police have been looking for him, and at length traced him to the Brevoort House, where he had just arrived. When taken to Police Headquarters he was recognized as a man who in 1879 was sent to the Eimira Reformatory. Warren at first told Inspector Byrnes that his name was S. P. Lees, but finding that he had been recognized he admitted that his true name was J. H. Warren. He gave the foll wing account of his performances since he has been at liberty, which is only a short time:

After leaving the Reformatory he went to Providence, R. L. and there he succeeded in getting about $1,600 on various forged checks. From Providence he went to Youkers, the home of his mother. There he obtained $100 by means of a check to which he appended the signature of Miss Price, a milliner who kept an account in the Yonkers bank. He also obtained $100 by a forged check on the West Point Iron Works at Cold Spring. In this city he had committed forgeries on Trilany & Co., Arnold & Constable, Higgins & Co., and other firms to the amount of about $2,000.

The prisoner is a fine looking man, only twenty-five years old. He has two brothers, who are respectable merchants in this city, and another brother in Providence, R. I. When Warren was arrested in the Brevoort House he was accompanied by a young woman who declared she was his wife, and who said she was married to him in Providence in June last.

ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF IRON.

Assistant Secretary French, of the Treasury, in accordance with a request of the Standard Oil Company, which was importing a large amount of plate iron at the time, rendered a decision a year ago deciding that "plate" iron was subject to a duty of 1½ cents a pound, and that "manufactured" iron was subject to ad valoren duty—about one half the duty—on "plate" iron. The result was that a large amount of plate and angle iron was imported under the name of "manufactured" iron, and in consequence plate iron was reduced materially in price and has remained exceptionally low until recently, when it advanced.

The manner in which persons were enabled to import plate and angle iron as "manufactured" iron, was by having the plate and angle iron made a little longer than required and having a single hole punched in the end. Afterward the extra length was sheared off and sold as old iron. Recently the decision of Mr. French was reversed, and it is said that suits are to be begun against the Standard Oil Company to recover the duties which the Government has failed to receive. In the meantime the price of plate iron, which is used largely in the construction of vessels, has advanced about 40 per cent.

William T. Ames, a publisher of books and albums at No. 25 Park-place, and at No. 1,420 Chestnut-st., Philadelphia, has become financially embarrassed, and has submitted his affairs to his creditors. He has asked an extension from them, expecting to pay all his debts in full, if sufficient time is allowed him. He ascribes his embarrassment principally to the loss of a large sum due him from James Jordan, a book dealer, of No. 21 Park-row. The habilities of Mr. Ames are reported to be about $60,000, and the value of his assets is placed at from $50,000 to $60,000. Mr. Ames has been in business about four years.

James Jordan, a dealer in books at No. 21 Park-row, has failed, having been involved by the failure of D. & J. Sadlier & Co., for whom he indersed accommodation paper to the extent of $8,742. He owes William T. Ames $5,700, which he offered to compromise for 33 1-3 per cent, but Mr. Ames refused. The nominal value of the assets is about $25,000. The total liabilities are about $16,500. Mr. Jordan began business about fifteen years ago. He has branches in Chicago, Rochester, Buflaio, Utica and Syracuse.

MARRYING TWO MARRIED MEN.

A general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters on September 3, warning the police to look for Mary Louise Balley, age nineteen, of No. 81 Lewis-st., and Sarah Love, age eighteen, of No. 123 Avenne-D, who had left their homes and were supposed to be together. Detective McNamara was put on their track, and since Friday the girls have been at Police Headquarters. SURGEONS AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

SURGEONS AT BRIGHTON BEACH.

The American Surgical Association, which was organized a year ago, held its first stated meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Brighton, Coney Island. The attendance was not large, owing to the fact that r any members of the association who went to Europe to attend the medical convention there, have not yet returned. The proceedings consisted chiefly in the reading of papers by the different members present. Dr. Packard read several articles on the surgery of the neck. Professor Kinloch took up the subject of Spontaneous Aneurism, a very rare ailment. It was resolved that owing to the small number present the association should not this year publish a volume of transactions. The association adjourned at 5 o'clock to meet this morning at 11.

REPORTS CURRENT IN BROOKLYN-NO INQUIRIES MADE ABOUT THE MISSING MAN AND HIS WIFE UNTIL MONDAY MORNING-THE EXAMINATION OF ALDERMAN JONES, ALDERMAN JONES.

Apparently no trace of the missing ex-Secretary of the Brooklyn Board of Education, George A. W. Stuart, was found yesterday in Brooklyn. It was reported, however, on the alleged authority of Assistant District-Attorney Backus, that a clew to the the missing man showed that he had gone to Reading. Penn., but Mr. Backus denied knowing anything about this. Superintendent of Police Campbell said he had no knowledge of where Mr. Stuart had gone.

It came to light yesterday that Baker, who drove the carriage in which Mr. and Mrs. Stuart went to Central Park Sunday, and who returned home alone after waiting for them at the Eighth-ave, entrance for four nours, merely informed his employer, Alderman Jones, on his return that Mr. and Mrs. Stuart were coming on the cars. It was not until the next moraing that any alarm about his brother-in-law was shown by Mr. Jones. It is regarded as possible that Mr. Stuart left his wife with friends in this city before he went away. The theory that he sailed for Europe is generally abandoned, as his appearance is peculiar and his arrest on landing could be effected by using the occan cable. While most persons scouted as improbable the theory that suicide had been committed by the missing ex-secretary and his wife, it was still maintained by some. Assistant District-Attorney Backus thought it was strongly probable, and said he would not be surprised if their bodies were found in one of the by some Assistant District-Attorney Backus thought it was strongly probable, and said he would not be surprised if their bodies were found in one of the lakes of Central Park. He based this opinion on private information he had received and which he had confidence in. Mrs. Smart, he said, was a delicate woman, and could be easily influenced by her husband to any course of action. The general conclusion yesterday was that the impending civil suit for the recovery of $200,000, feared by Mr. Suart, caused him to run away, as it would be clearly impossible for him to secure bail to a large amount and he would have been put in joil.

fee in the Hills, and the few of the Shinnecock Indians now remaining, are considering the possibility of recovering possession of the property through a suit at law. The Hills Reservation, with the exception of about 400 acres is hilly, sandy, and woodless. It was secured to the Shinnecock tribe in 1703 by lease from the town for 1,000 years the Indians to pay a yearly rental of one ear of corn. The land was not fenced and as the white settlers retained the right of way through the tract, the crops raised by the Indians were destroyed by travel, and stray cattle. They finally gave up the attempt to till the land, and resumed their old occupation of fishing. Few, if any, of the old tribe remain. They have intermarried with both blacks and whites and are fast disappearing. The Hills were purchased by a company in 1862. Lately this portion has been secured by Mr. Bowman for the purpose, it was said at the time, of converting it into a sheep ranch. This seems not to be the plan of the purchaser, however, for Mr. Corbin, of the Long Island Railroad Company, is said to have stated that the land was bought by an English company in which he is interested and which proposes to use the tract for laying out a new summer resort.

ABSENT AT THE TIME.

Aboiler at Bulman & Brown's sectional dry-dock, at the foot of Essex-st., Jersey City. exploded with terrific force about a quarter before 8 o'clock yesterday morning and took a remarkable flight through the air, killing two men in its course and injuring four or five other men and a boy more or less seriously. Before going to work yesterday George Evesson, the engineer, who lives at No. 107 Grand-st., received a telegram from his wife informing him that she was ill at Kingston, N. Y., and asking him to come to her. Evesson went to the dock, lighted the fire in the furnace and then started for Kingston, leaving his nephew, Walter Evesson, a young man of twenty-two, in charge of the engine and boiler. Mr. Brown, one of the firm, was on his way to the dock at 6:30 o'clock, when he met the engineer, who showed him he telegram and told him what he dock, saw young Evesson and told him to look out for the fire. Evesson said, as Mr. Brown alleges, that he had just put the coal on. The tugboat William E. Chadwick, of which Lionel D. Decker was captain, was in the dry dock, but the repairs which it needed had been completed, and it was ready to leave the dock to make room for a barge which was waiting to take its place. When Mr. Brown arrived he cailed all the employes, including Walter Evesson, to haul the barge around, so as to have it ready to go on the dock as soon as the tug got off.

While working at the barge Evesson heard the safety valve on the boiler give an alarm. He hastened to the boiler, which was on a platform to one side of the dock, at an elevation of about thirty feet above the floor, and climbed up the ladder—the only means of access to the platform—but before he could accomplish it a sharp hissing sound was heard, followed by a terrific explosion, and the boiler shot in a straight line westward through Essex-st. It first tore the roof off of a shed in Grant's spar yard, and then made a bec-line for a large tenement house on the corner of Hudson-st., but was slightly turned from i

PREVALENCE OF HAY-FEVER.

THE DISEASE SAID TO BE LESS GENERAL THAN IN FORMER YEARS.

It has been reported in various quarters that hay-fever is not so prevalent as usual this year, and that many annual sufferers from this annoying disease have not been compelled to make their customary jaunts to the mountains or the sea in order to escape their longtime enemy. A TRIBUNE reporter asked Dr. Alonzo Clark yesterday whether there was any foundation for hay-fever is not prevalent this summer. I have several patients who usually suffer from it, and they are by the patients who assume them in, and they are by the sea or in the moantains. The discuse is produced by the pollen of certain plants, and as plants are a little fields in their growth possibly they are not so abundant this year; but of that I know nothing. One of these plants is Ambrosia Artemesia Folia, which is sometimes cailed hogweed, or ragweed. The pollen circulates in the atmosphere of a city, as has been demonstrated. Pieces of glass covered with giycerine and then exposed to the air have been afterward found coated with pollen. Hay-fever varies, in regard to its prevalence, in differwind and still more on the productiveness of the plants in that part of the country. The only cure for hay fever is to get into an atmosphere where this poilen is not found, but the cure will not be permanent. The disease will return the following year. There are, however, only a few persons who suffer from it. If you will tell

"Where is the pollen found near New-York!"

"In New-Jersey it grows in abundance. I have often run across it while out shooting. The plant producing it may have failed this year for lack of moisture. After a harvest the fields are usually full of it. The power of pollen to spread is limited and it finally falls to the ground. The sea and mountain regions, particularly the disease is said not to manifest itself."

"It is said that Henry Ward Beecher has been able to forego his annual trip to the Winte Mountains this summer. How would you account for his escape from hay-fever!"

I have said, in less abundance this year."

LAYING DOWN LIFE'S BURDENS.

Joseph A. Jaggy, age thirty-five, a Belgian cigarmaker, employed in Straiton & Storm's factory, in Twenty-seventh-st., committed suicide yesterday at No. 155 Deisneey-st., where he lodged. He endeavored to hang himself by means of a small rope tied to a hook in the wall. The hook broke and Jargy repeated the attempt, with the same result, not less than four times. Finally he took a pocket-knife and drove it to the hilt into his heart. He was dead when found. For several days he had been in a desperate mood and had been drinking heavily. His desperation was ascribed to the refusal of a woman, known among his fellow-lodgers as Margaret, to follow him from the old country to America. He left her behind when he emigrated a year ago, and she had since refused to leave her home to join him, as he expected.

Solomon Roule, age thirty-eight, hanged himself at No. 129 Cannon-st., yesterday, but was cut down and restored to life.

An unknown man, forty years old, threw himself into 155 Delancey-st., where he lodged. He endeavored to

An unknown man, forty years old, threw himself into the East River from the foot of East Ninth-st. yesterday. He was rescued and taken to Bellevue Hospital uncon-scious. scious.

Mary Funel, of College Point, L. I., while temporarily insane, attempted to commit suicide yesterday morning by throwing herself in front of the 10:30 train for Hunter's Point. She was resented by a bystander.

THE SHOW AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

A sea of heads met the eye at the Madison quare Garden Monday night at the exhibition of W. C. Coup's combined shows. Mr. Coup gives just enough of hippodrome to satisfy the craving of the populace for hippodrome to satisfy the craving of the populace for feats of daring and graceful horsemanship, enough of menageric to please the curious who are debarred the pleasure of secing strange beasts in their native wilds, and enough of feats of agility to fascinate those who delight in studying the capabilities of the human frame for overcoming its apparent limitations of the power of locomotion. Notable in this line are the flying trapeze acts of Nesier and his comrade, performed at a dizzy height, including a wonderful backward leap from the bighest point of the dome nearly to the ground; the arial gymnastics of Leopold and Geraldine, who dives headforemost, 70 feet, into a net, and the hurling from a powerful catapult of Lahu, "the man-bird," across the entire building, at a height of 60 feet, and for a distance of 100 feet. The collection of horses is large, and includes some rare animals, both for beauty, speed and intelligence. The hurdle races and single and double Roman chariot races are exciting from the element of andoubted danger in them, and the keen rivalry of the contestants, which is not assumed.
